Washington, Jan. 28-Virginia's proposition to place a statue of Genthe capitol besids that of George Washlogion for the past few weeks. There and adverse to the proposed pian.

Interviews with leading Republicans in congress lead to the belief that if Virginia decides to honor the memory tingnished poldier in statuary hall, con gress will not object.

Of ait the northern men who have seen Senator Depew of New York, is the most hearty in his exthe statue. Many say privately they the tax levy for elty purposes for the would not oppose it, but Senator Delowing is his statement: "My opinwas fought for the preservation of the ninon. This question has been disonsed in deinte by the two sides ever since the framing of the articlas of the confederation. The Union side ler purchased, Oak Grove improved. won. The issue was accepted at once the fire station cularged and an addiby the defeated side, and I think the placing of a statue of General Robert E. Lee in statuary hall would be an emphatic recognition of the fact that we are all now advocates of nationality and its perpetaity. I am heartily In favor of the Lee statue."

Senator Beveridge said, when asked for his views in regard to the accept-

"Owing to my being occupied with the statebood bill I have not had time to give this matter careful consideration, and I should like to go into it thoroughly before giving an opinion. I am inclined to think, however, that I would favor receiving the statue."

Representativa Crnmpacker, of Indiana, one of the leading Republicans in the honse, and who has been trying for years to have passed a measure looking to the reduction of the repre entation of the south in congress, is another who comes out squarely with the statement that he would not oppose the proposed pian.

"In my opinion," said Judge Crum "the settlement of this question should be left entirely to Virginia. Robert E. Lee was a distinguish od citizen of the country. He was a conspicuous figure in the cause of the Canfederacy, a canse which Virignia esponsed, and if Virginia wants to remember him hy placing his statue in statuary ball, personally I see no rea on why she should not do so. Lee is Virginia's son, and it is for her to deolde this question as she sees fit."

Representative Itay of Virginia said that he had come to the conclusion that it would be just as well for the Virginia legisalture to go ahead and pass the hill, whatever the consequonces might be.

SOMETHING OF PAST YEARS

It is probable the iax levy will this year not be over $1.50 on the $100 for ing. eral Robert E. Lee in statuary hali at all purposes, no matter what the total assessment proves to be. One of the able. ington, has been discussed in Wash. aldermen said today he would not vote for any levy over $1.50. The levy last have been many expressions favorable year, as is well known to all tax payers, was $1 85, and there is nothing now to show for it.

Undonbtedly there will be some tall shaving down when the appropriation of Lee by placing a statue of the dis. ordinance passed by the council comes up in the board of aldermen tonight. There are several of the appropriations said to be too large.

In councetion with the levy, it was anggested by one official today that in pressions of favor to the neceptance of fixing it, it was worth considering that aix years preceding the present adminpew does not mince words. The fol. istration was less than one dollar on an average. This included the Relon on this subject is very clear The publican administration, when some war between the north and the south of the city's most substantial improvements were made.

During these six years, including Mayor Lang's administration, the sanitary sewerage was hnilt, the street roltional one hnilt and the aerial truck bought, a number of fills and bridges built and thousands of feet of pipe dralunge laid, Mechanicalung was given anhstantial street improvements, the brick street was built and sprinkler and cleaner bought, and if there was any department of the city government not run as well as it has been during the regime of the $1.85 crowd, it is not known what it was. Yet the tax rate on an average, was less than a dollar for city purposes during these six years with a smaller total assessed valuation.

During the year pass the tax rate was $1.85 and over $150,000 was spent, but the public has not been any better off and there is nothing to show for lt. It seems to be the general opinion that such a wanton waste of public money is inexensable, and that the tax rate should be a great deal smaller this year. There will, it is hoped, be plenty of money to rnn the city in an economical, satisfactory way, but there will be no money to throw away this time, if present re-

ITAKE pleasure in joining the large number of testators who have been cured through tha use of Wine of Cardul. It is certainly a very remarkable curative agent, and while it is pleasant to take and mild in action it is very strong and positiva in curativa ability. I was also irregular and had severa monthly palus, all of which showed me that I was entirely out of harmony with health. I naturally desired a change and doctored for several months, hoping for better health. I was however disappointed to find that the medicine afforded me uo relief. Julia Britton Young women cannot too carefully guard the monthly function. Women as a rule look npon this great function of nature as a trouble instead of a blessing. They seldom consider that it relieves the body of poisonous wastes and that a suppressed or a seanty flow is invariably a forerunner of sickness. Because Wine of Cardui perfectly regulates tha monthly function hundreds of thousands of women owa their lives to it. Wine of Cardul as a regulator of the monthly function not only purifies the blood bot it reliaves weak and nervous women of troubles which doctors not only did not cure hai do not often diagnose correctly. In thousands of cases of so-called "debility," "nervousness" and "tred, worn out feeling." Wine of Cardul by regulating the menstrual flow, has proven the remedy that was needed. If your doctor is doing you no good, secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui and take it in your home. It will cure you but you will only be one woman among thousands with the same experience. Remember Wine of Cardui cured Miss Britton. Accept no other medicine as a substitute. Give Vilne of Cardui a fair trial and health will be yoors.

OUR STREETS, SAVE THE MARK

"Paducah's streets are in a shocking condition! Will the council do nothing to better them?" Paducah's offiotal organ asks in bold, black letters stretching across the front page. What can the conneil do now? It would take months to get the streets in good condition, if there were the alightest intention of placing them in good condition. But there is not. If Democratic city connoils in the past several years had attempted to give the city good streets, the present condition would have been impossible. For years the city has wasted money on gravel that it does not require an expert to tell was absolutely unfit for the streets, and now the people are paying the fiddler. This paper has indicated numberless times how good streets can be had. Improve those where the beeviest hauling is done with brick or asphelt, which would inclade the husiness pert of tha city and save the cost of future repairs, and put only the best gravel on those where the lighter traffic abounds.

One statement, made presumably in extenuation of the present condition of the streets under a Democratic administration, is that the streets are in the same deplorable condition in which they have been at this season every year for 20 years. It is a severe indictment of Democratic efficiency. If the Republicans had been in power 20 years we'd be ashamed to make such an admission in regard to the streets. There is no excuse for the streets being is their present plight at any time except that they have been neglected ead covered with worthless grevel. The Democrate have been is power most of the 20 years named, and if they could give the people good streets they be ren't done it, and if they can't do it, they ought to swear off from holding office and let men fill their pleces who can. If they have been unable to give the city good streets for 20 years, the inference is that they will be just as helplessly incompetent during the next 20 years, and the voters onght to attend to their case this November, and probably will do 'it.

During the two years of the Repubitean council the city's streets were the best in her history, because the atreet roller was need on them. The street eppropriation then was about $12,000, and in addition to the necessaries regard as "public sentiment" is ry repairs, Mechanicsburg was graveled and the street roller was purchased.

Paducah nuder Democratic rule ought to be enough to disgust any taxpayer.

When the ballots in the state Demoeratic primary are counted it will be. see for themselves how public senticome plain why some of the Democrats | ment stands. have so persistently fought the primary-that is, unless some of the candidates plead poverty ead withdraw and thus escape defeat. The Leader adds: "This is so apparently untrae upos its face that it is hardly worthy of an answer. The editor of the News-Demperat knows as well as anybody class that the State Executive Committee never had eny other intention than the primary, if called should be strictly in accordance with the provisions of the law. The court of appeals in a decision last spring held that any prinary called by any political party must be in accordance with the law. It was a matter of general diseassion, and every member of the state com mittee was familier with that decl sion and knew that any call for a primary act in accordance with the law would be held void. There never was any desire ou the part of the committee to call any other kind of a primary and it is ridicaloas to essert that they had any other intention in the matter. HELP BADLY NEEDED.

The otter inability of Democratic office holders in Padnesh to cope with any public question is further attested by the move to heve a citizens' committee appointed to co-operate with improvements, and in which the mayor himself is said to concur. "For many years I was a sufferer from heart and aervous troulies. I would have spells when I would be uncommonly hungry even after eating; headache, sour stommeh, griping pains, weak, tremlding spelts, me sometimea quite severe. The doctos gave only temporary seliel from pain and I decided to try Dr. Miles' Kemedies. I began with one bottle of the Heart Cure and one of the Restorative Nervine, and they helped ms so much that I got some more. When I had taken six hottles my nerves were sateady as elock-work. I could eat anything I wanted and as much as I wanted without therring me. I thank Dr. Miles for the could It has done me."—JOHN B. ADAMS, Glenn, Ga.

went over by the table. He addom snw the News, and he never read It. Ills whole refined nature rebelled in disgust at the monstrosity of yellow journalism, but his curlosity was 17.11.8 atrong enough to ninke him read what Barton accmed so genuinely sorrow for.
The hendiluca were bold and obtruaire:

"Quarrela With Ills Father! John Gordon, Son of Rufua Gordon, the Runker and Stock Manipulator, Goes to Live at Hope House. A Rich Stum-mer. Break With His Finnece, Miss Lucilk Marsh. A Stormy Interview. Miss Marsh Refuses to Go With Him. All the Parties Prophysical in Hashuse. All the Parties Prominent in Italians and Social Circles. Mr. Gordon Re-pudlates His Son. Miss Marah Refuses lo Talk. Does Not Deny Interview With Her Former Lover, John Gordon to Make a Special Study of Tenement

The whole "atory" occupied two colimns, and directly under the headlines, which covered two columns in width, were two cuts, one of John Gordon and the other of Lucila Marsh. The title under these cuts read, "Cupid Itaika at Social Sacrifice."

John Gordon read the headlines.

"No; it isn't. I'm going to aleep here.

I often do, It starts the cough if I get up again. I'm countrable, You'll stay all night? You know your room. Do, that's a good fellow. I may want the other of Lucila Marsh. The title under these cuts read, "Cupid Itaika at You to help me harness up the cough in the morning."

"Yes; I'll atavit. I'm going to aleep here. House t'onditions in Rowen Street." The whole "story" occupied two col-nions, and directly under the headlines, John Gordon read the headlines and glared at the pictures. Then he crushed the paper between his handa with Mr. Marsh."

Inavis Ration looked lovingly at John Gordon. His cynical, whinsical, reck-less manner disappeared for a moment.

It was after 11 o'clock, and yet Gordon. John. It's purely business with me.
I'tu awfully sorry for yon. What do l believe anyway? My whole life has contradicted my creed. But mayle there's hope for me yet. What do you there's hope for me yet. think? Am I too bad to repent and be

John Gordon stared at his friend, nad In a moment his own deep, abiding, religious experience reminded him that here was a soul groping after light.
"David," he exclaimed softly, "no one is too had to repent and be axeed.
Ob, David, Christ makes all life worth

"I believe that," the reply came in a whisper. "I've never said much, John, but I've tried to"....

The usually cynical voice actually broke with a son that cut John Gordon deep, although in that tense moment which had come on so swiftly there was a flerce joy at the confession his friend had made.

Trend had made.

He bent uver and put a hand on Harton's, and they sat this silent for a gracions moment. It was significant that neither of them had said a word about Itarion's physical condition and his hopeless future, as far as physical life was concerned. The stillness in the room was suddenly interrupted by a clang out on the atrect.

Gordon went over lo the window and looked out.

"The department is making a fine run," he said briefly to liurton. It was late and the avenue was almost empty of traffic. A team of pure white horses on the engine which pre-ceded the hose and isdder wagons plunged forward with a desperate hnt glad ahandon that struck fire from the pavement and whirled the engine along with a mad but glorious energy that made human blood run faster and kept the pulses benting with ayunpathy. The driver and his assistant leaned for driver and his assistant tenned forward, their bare heads tossing their free hair behind; the whole aceno flashed by in the night like a bit torn out of a Roman charlot race of the dead past, transferured by chance to the modern municipality, whose streets are lighted with electricity, and whose buildings foom up in the amoky air like crags beside the prairle sea.

The whirling group awept around the corner at the end of the next block, alacking speed just enough to avoid turning over. John Gordon came back tu David's alde.

"Where is the fire?"
"I didn't notice the alarm. Must have been a still one." "Have you ever thought what would happen, John, if a fire ever got a good chance around Hope House?"

"Have I? I think of it every time I go into the double decker. They are almply traps. If a fire ever started in the basement of No. 91, it would be a miracle if anybody got out alive."

"How about Hope House likelf?" The question showed uneasinesa.
"Hope House is a dry old shell lustide. It would go like tinder."
"The fire tonight is not down that "No; the teams turned up Favell street.' "Is No. 91 any worse than other num

"No: It's better hi some ways. But there's a bakery in the basement. They fry greasy doughnits over n eracked stove. One drop of greaso catching fire in the place might aweep a score of children into eteruity."

"They'd be better off in eternity than

John Gordon picked up the paper and | in the fenement, wouldn't they? Maybe the best thing you could do would be to pray for No. 91 to catch on fire when the wind's just right."

John Gordon unde no answer, and Itarton asked drowsily:

"How about Mr. Marsh? You dropped mo a line about the probability of his having an interest in helping Miss An drews financially."
"Mr. Marsh is the landlord of No

"Sho! You don't say!" The voice was awake ngain. "Then the amount of his contribution to social settlements is not yet made public?" "Mr. Marsh has been with me through the district today. He anw his own tenement for the first time."

"That's a good story; tell me about ." The voice was again drowsy. "It's too late, David," Gordon remonstruted.

"Ring the bell for Williams, John. I think he's in the pantry. You need his help to do it justlee. Sorry I don't feel able to chip in with you."

For a moment John Gordon stood atill by the table; then he came over and sat down by his friend.

"I don't care for myself, but I rate."

With Mr. Marsh."

Gordon had not taiked five minutes before ltarton was asleep, an unnatural simuler, more like death than healthy refreshing of wearled powers. His whole attitude was that of complete exhaustion. The seal of death was upon him.

John Gordon stoored to the property of the property of the seal of death was upon him.

"I don't care for myself, but Luella!
David, It's a horrible invasion of all litarion was the dearest friend he had, one's sacred private affairs. I have never understood how you could believe in that sort of journalism."

John Gordon stopped talking, and the tears rolled down his cheeks. David litarion was the dearest friend he had. The two were ten years apart in age, but from the time when they first met they had been instantly drawn to

"I don't believe in it. Never did, don hesitated to go to bed. He almost bin. It's purely business with me. feared that Itarton would never wake

He was still sitting there, bla checks atill wet with the tears that he did not try to repress, when Williams came in softly ou tlittoe. "There's a queer old lady outside,

Mr. Gordon, says she wants to see Mr. Itarton, if it sin't too late. She's a mighty queer looking specimen. She won't go away, and I thought maybe you'd go and see her." "Harton la asleep now. He can't be wakened. Ask the lady to come luto the ball." Gordon went out, drewing the cur-tains between the first room and the wide hallway, and met in the hall the visitor, who was promptly ushered lu by Williams. She was dressed in a remarkably old fashloned style that struck John Gor dou as exceedingly luteresting rathe than grotesque. She was very old, at least ninety, but straight and vigor-ous. Her keen blue eyes looked searchingly at John Gordon, and she spoke in a sharp but remarkably clear voice

"Are you Mr. Itarton?" "No, madam, I am bla friend, Mr. lordon. Mr. Barton la aaleep aud ot well. What can I do for you? Gordon, and bot well.

Will you be seated?"
"In a moment, air," Sha placed upon the floor a faded old carpetbag, took a handkerchief out of her pocket, carefully dusted one of the hall aeata and then sat down. As she took out the handkerchief a delicata aroma was waffed to John Gordon. It reminded him of the fragrance he remembered once while visiting the East India Marine museum at Salem, Meas, when the nttendent opened an old sea chest, lined with cedar and packed with silk shawls.

John Gordon was now thoroughly awake. The sharp eyes looked at him kindly, "I am exceedingly sorry to hear that Mr. Barton is lit. I very much wished to see blm. First I must be pardoned for ealling at this unaeasouable hour llut I had the address and saw the light and knew that newspaper men kept queer hours. I have called ut the oilice of the puper und was told Mr. Itarton was at his npartments. I must go on my journey tonight"—

John Gordon had not the remotest linkling as to the old lady's errand. She was evidently a person of great reflac ment and culture.
"How much of a friend are you to Mr. Hartou?" The question was so direct and frank that Gordon amiled.

"I am his dearest friend."
"Man or womnu?" the old lady asked with a twinkle of the eyes that made John Gordon smile egaln. "My friend has never had any love affair. He is a confirmed bachelor. "Ab, don't deceive yourself, young mntı. grandmother, your great-grandmother almost, and I have seen a great deal of the world. But, pardou me; I must tell you what I came for." Sho put her hand into e little bag that hung from e allk cord tled about her wrist. As she opened the hag the same delicate aroms penetrated the hall ugain.

She handed a card to Gordon. He look it and read:
